SGTV : GET REAL!

The inside scoop on the Hollywood North gossip line is that talented actor Stefano Giulianetti will be taking off to Toronto to film "Sketch Troop", a TV show for the LIFE Network. The reality-based show documents the work of 12 actors from across Canada as they work towards building a sketch comedy troop. After three weeks of comedy boot camp, half of the performers will have a chance to make their mark at Montreal's prestigious "Just For Laughs" comedy festival. This program falls on the heels of another similar project: "Impromptu", an improvised TV series. Giulianetti recently finished work on the pilot episode alongside some of Vancouver's finest. Release dates for both Sketch Troop and Impromptu have yet to be announced, stay tuned for further updates in upcoming issues.

PATIENTLY WAITING?

While many actors wait for auditions, patient actor Stefano Giulianetti is busy "waiting" in a national TV spot for Toyota. This latest foray into the nation's living rooms sees him patiently waiting for a buddy in a new Toyota 4Runner only to lock him out once he arrives with a messy sandwich. That seems to be the only waiting the laborious actor has been doing these days.

OR BUSY THESPIAN?

Between the occasional monday night improv show at The Urban Well and private bookings (sorry, no children's parties), Giulianetti also finds the time to perform with Bella Luna Productions. With a focus on the traditional Italian masks of Commedia Dell'Arte, the company produces "honest and entertaining work that transcends language barriers." So far this year, Stefano has performed in and co-written three shows in english and italian. The most recent was an energetic (and frightening) show at the fifth annual "Sketch In Time" fundraiser for the ALS Society at the Arts Club Theatre. (For more info, visit www.alsbc.ca)
